Americans are bombarded by advertising constantly. They have become cynical, untrusting, and more than a bit suspicious of anything unexpected that arrives in their inbox. This, of course, is bad news for your email advertising campaign (unfairly labeled spam in this hostile legislative environment)... unless, that is, your ad copy has been sanitized, scrubbed clean, and totally revamped by GigglesWorth Internet Marketing Ventures™© (Patent Pending) (NOT AVAILABLE IN ALL MARKETS). Here at GigglesWorth Internet Marketing Ventures™©(Patent Pending) we rewrite ad copy so rather than looking like the worthless spam that it is, it appears to be a genuine communiqué of the sort the receiver is interested in receiving: nay, looking forward to receiving. But rather than promising riches or gold or offering a come on too good to be true, we carefully rephrase your hook in a way that causes it to blend in with the rest of the receiver's inbox, turning it into a hook devoid of special meaning or promise, effectively transforming the hook into just another action item that needs to be completed in the course of the receives busy day.

This Holy Grail of Spam we achieve by utilizing our Five Step™©(Patent Pending)(not available in all markets) process:

And I suppose for this to be finished, I might have needed a five step process. Oh, well, maybe someday. But it's been a year since I first had the idea, so probably not today.
