Word Games
Python: the name of the game
C: a legacy version of the game, too verbose for me
Haskell: in theory, an interesting game...
JavaScript: a game I shall play, no more
GhostScript: a game, someday I'll play
HTML: and plenty more like that, but it's not really a game

Mind Games
Economics: abstractions that I read about
Fiction: abstractions that I write about
Blueprints: a little handiwork, makes abstractions manifest
Intellectualism: abstractions for abstractions sake
Math: the ultimate abstraction

Management
Self: employed or not, I work every day
Project: so many, so many, 25 years, bold point, old man
Office: yes, ran one for years
Future: code coordination seems like a worthwhile goal
